Rotation of the modern teaching methods in the process of student socialization

Sahil Jafarov

Author:

Sahil Jafarov,
Lankaran State University,
PhD on the pedagogical sciences. Azerbaijan, Lankaran. E-mail:
sahilceferov77@mail.ru

Abstract. The article deals with the opinion and ideas about the main opportunities of modern lesson and the reason of socialization of student personality.The organization forms of modern lesson have been explained widely. Besides it, it has been noted about the stages of modern lesson and the problems of the organization of activeness of students in these stages. The main attention has been directed to the problem of the direction of socialization of student personality in the article, there have also been noted the problem of the organization of pedagogical work at modern lesson, and the creation of mutual relation system in student collective. Extensive scientific approaches and practical examples have been shown about the ways of increasing of teaching quality in the article. It should be noted that this kind of approach to pedagogical work contributes to continuous perspectives in education. The essence of the pedagogical work is the content of education it will create conditions for the social-logical coordination of the individual stages of the structure of the textbook on pedagogical-psychological basis. The article also presents extensive scientific approaches and practical examples of ways to improve the quality of education.